Principal's Memo

This past week we allowed students to access teachers during Advisory "office hours" if they had missing assignments. Students with no missing assignments were allowed to remain in Advisory and read independently or engaged in Math IXL. We will continue to support students in making sure we eradicate missing assignments at Hill. When you receive the daily emails at 3:30, please support your child in completing the assignments and advocating with their teachers. Thank you for your help in making all Hill students successful!

Sean Kavanaugh; Principal

SUPPORT OUR GOAL FOR READING

We have an ambitious goal: All of our students will read 20 books this year. Former President Obama perfectly explains why he was so committed to reading during his presidency in a recent New York Times interview: "At a time when events move so quickly and so much information is transmitted," he said, reading gave him the ability to occasionally "slow down and get perspective" and "the ability to get in somebody else's shoes." These two things, he added, "have been invaluable to me."

According to an HBR article, "Nike founder Phil Knight so reveres his library that in it you have to take off your shoes and bow." Oprah Winfrey credits books with much of her success: "Books were my pass to personal freedom." She has shared her reading habit with the world via her book club.

Did you know? Warren Buffett spends five to six hours per day reading five newspapers and 500 pages of corporate reports. Bill Gates reads 50 books per year. Mark Zuckerberg reads at least one book every two weeks. Elon Musk grew up reading two books a day, according to his brother. Mark Cuban reads more than 3 hours every day. Arthur Blank, co-founder of Home Depot, reads two hours a day.

Shout out to our Top Readers:

6th grade: Candida Bruno; 38 books

7th grade: Sophia Fabian; 33 books

8th grade: Anna Kathryn Baer; 37 books

FREE TAX PREPARATION & TAX CREDIT INFO

DPS is partnering with The Piton Foundation to promote free tax help and tax credits like the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) because of the positive impact it has on both children and their families. The EITC is considered one of the nation's most effective anti-poverty tools. Children who grow up in poverty experience more missed days of school, lower grades and additional barriers to their long-term academic success. If you have questions, contact Kelly Wagoner or call 303-454-3733.
